Australian Natural History Medallion Trust Fund Donation Form

The Australian Natural History Medallion began in 1939 as way of recognizing and appreciating "some person's signal service" towards protecting native flora and fauna. J. K. Moir who instigated the award initially funded it out of his own pocket but increasing costs have continued to put pressure on this prestigious national award. This fund was set up in 1975 to help meet the costs of providing the annual Medallion, and also to cover the administrative expenses. All donations are gratefully received, and are acknowledged in The Victorian Naturalist.
