LATROBE CITY LIBRARIES

Our local library's have subscribed to Ancestry Library Edition, a research tool offering one of the most comprehensive genealogical information bases available online. With more than 1.5 billion names in over 4,000 collections.

"It is an impressive resource", says Claire Wood of Traralgon Library, "not only can you track your ancestors and their families across the centuries, you can view and download the original records, which is a huge bonus"

You can search censuses for England & Wales to 1901, Civil Registration Indexes for births, deaths and marriages, plus UK and Ireland parish and probate records from the 1500s to the 1800s and even earlier. There are also a few military, immigration/emigration, court and probate records. It is also very strong in US and Canadian records.

Ancestry Library is available free on computers in Latrobe City libraries at Moe, Morwell and Traralgon, and soon at Churchill.

Female migration to Australia 1833-1837

by Elizabeth Rushen

In April we were fortunate to have Liz Rushen visit MGFHS and speak to us about the above publication. Her book is about the first scheme for female migration to Australia, and the many women who emigrated from Britain and Ireland in the 1830s.

The women's selection, interviews, life-experiences and writings show that they were drawn from a wide cross-section of nineteenth century society. The book challenges those who criticised the women: they may have been travelling alone, 'unprotected' by a male guardian, but they certainly could not be dismissed en masse as the 'sweepings of the gutters'. These women were, in fact, bold and enterprising, and made ideal workers and wives in the new colonies.

Condemned for their independence, most of the women were enterprising individuals who successfully managed the migration experience and made valuable contributions to the development of Australian colonial society.

Administered for the colonial office by the London Emigration Committee, the scheme met with immediate criticism. The committee was condemned for its selection processes in what was seen as a plot to transplant immoral women and the sweepings of British and Irish workhouses and charitable institutions to colonial society.

Several of the ships contained only female migrants, but the majority contained family and single male migrants in addition to a large proportion of single females.

The ships departed Gravesend, England and Cork and Dublin, Ireland between April 1833 and November 1836. They all completed successful voyages of between 93 and 133 days.

Under the scheme fourteen ships disembarked approximately 2700 female emigrants at Sydney, Hobart and Launceston. The names of the 2700 women and the fourteen ships are on Liz's web site at <http://www.rushen.com.au/>

CARRAJUNG CEMETERY

by David Weatherill

In June 1885 a request was made for a reservation of land to be used as a cemetery in the township of Carrajung in Gippsland, within the 19 Section of land held by Mr H.G. Biggs. Mr Biggs had given his approval for this land to be used as a cemetery. The area for the cemetery was 12 acres, 1 rood, 35 perches and located in the Parish of Carrajung, County of Buln Buln. The initial request was in a letter to Mr T.A. Duncan, Land Officer, of Sale and was signed by 10 selectors and residents; these included Henry Grainge Briggs, Emily G. Biggs, David Wight, James Ray, William D. Wight, James Matches, John Steele, William Doultree, Duncan Matches, and David Boye. The request forwarded to the government of the day, was approved and then submitted to the Governor in Council, who approved it on the 1 April, 1886.

There had already been at least one burial prior to 1886. This was the two year old daughter of Henry Grainge Biggs and his wife Sarah Rebecca (nee Shipper,) she died on the 8 April 1884 and was buried on the 10 April, 1884.

At a public meeting held at Carrajung on the 24 October, 1892 the Trustees of Carrajung Cemetery were appointed. These would appear to be the first Trustees appointed for the cemetery and it was noted that all were from Carrajung, they were:

- Henry Bosuston
- David Boye
- Henry Grainge Biggs
- Donald Dugall McAlpine
- James Ray
- Thomas O'Shea
- David Wight

Further correspondence to the cemetery trust on the 21 June, 1913 by the Secretary of the Health Department of Victoria sought information pertaining to the trustees for the cemetery with the following information noted on the reply.

- Henry Grainge Biggs, English, dead.
- Donald Dougald Mc Alpine, Presbyterian, still acting.
- Jas Ray, English, still acting.
- David Wight, Presbyterian, still acting.
- Oswald Grainge Biggs, English, left the district, not acting.
- Geo Abe Doultree, English, left the district not active.

On the 13 October, 1919, David Wight, Secretary of the Trust wrote to the Secretary of the Public Health Department stating that he was resigning as secretary and there was now only one Trustee left, Mr Ray. He also could not get any other people to "take it on at the present time as it is only a harbour for Rabbits and it is one dense mass of scrub and there is never anybody uses it as when any body dies they are taken to Yarram or Gormandale." He then went on to request the name of the person who he should send the cemetery books to. In 1956 a request was made to use the cemetery land for grazing cattle by a local farmer, but this request was rejected.

Detailed research has identified a large amount of information on the cemetery, but to date only a small number of burials have been identified. These include:

- Allison Wight, 2 years, died 12 June, 1898, Buried: 14 June, 1898
- George May, 7 ½ years, died: 30 January, 1900, Buried 2 February, 1900
- Henry Benjamin Lucas, aged 29 years, died: 16 August, 1904, Buried: 18 August, 1904.
- Henry Grainge Biggs, aged 75 years, died: 18 October, 1907, Buried: 20 October, 1907.
- Nancy Elizabeth Willis, aged: 1 year; died: 10 March, 1928, Buried: 12 March, 1928.

The last burial would appear to be in 1928. How many burials there were in the cemetery is not known. Parts of the cemetery can still be seen but the bush is slowly taking over the old site. The grave and parts of the headstone for the Biggs family was still there a short time ago. This cemetery is part of the Lone Graves of Gippsland: A photo of the Biggs grave can be found on the Australia Cemeteries site: http://www.ozgenonline.com/aust_cemeteries/.

If you have any questions about the cemetery or can add any extra information, David would love to hear from you. Contact him by Email: djweath@bigpond.net.au or write to: David Weatherill; 86 Moreton Crescent, Bundoora Victoria 3083

MEMBER PROFILE; DAWN COWLEY

Where and why did you get started on your family history?

Though I'd always been interested in "family", the trigger that got my interest was a notice in the local paper that a group of people were looking at forming a family history group in the Latrobe Valley. So it was 1980, and the formation of this group, that I began fair dinkum research. My paternal grandfather William Phillip Davies born in 1884, had told me wonderful stories of his life: days well before electricity, motor cars life as I knew it. He was shaping up well to celebrate his 100th birthday early in 1984, so I thought I'd "do" the family history in time for this celebration. Unfortunately my grandfather missed making his century by three months. Meanwhile I had very soon realised that doing the family history was going to take me a whole lot longer than three years. In fact, it wasn't until 1987 that I decided I had sufficient material to publish. There is no doubt that the vast amount of family knowledge that my grandfather had passed on to me was a great springboard to getting me on my way.

What names are you researching?

With the exception of the Belgian line, my background all stems from either England or Scotland. The main names are: (Paternal line) - Davies, Thompson, London, Van Suylen; (Maternal line) – Jessup, York, Gladston(e), Crack, Irwin; and on my husband Grant's line – Cowley, Newdick, Boag.

How far back have you researched?

It varies. Mostly I have been able to get to the early to mid 1700's, but the Smallridge's, my 7 X g. grandparents, married in 1692. To this time I don't have their birth dates. My main interest now is to try to trace all descendants of my first generations to arrive in Australia.

Who were your first ancestors to arrive in Australia?

Without exception, the first members of each line of my family arrived in the first six years of the 1850's ... they must have been attracted by the gold rush! My maternal line all settled in the Beechworth area, the Van Suylen's followed the gold finds, the Davies went to the Mornington Peninsula and the Thompson's and London's lived in the Geelong and Warrnambool areas.

What is your most interesting find?

That's a hard one! A calico bag containing letters written by my g.g.uncle from the battle fields of France to his misbehaving wife, the bigamous third marriage of my gt.g.grandfather Van Suylen, and the newspaper report on part of the court proceedings in relation to this marriage, copies of correspondence of my g.g.grandfather Davies relating to his acquisition of land in Bittern.... but of course the discovery of anything relevant to my research is interesting.

If the family tree wish fairy would give you the answer to one question, what would it be?

I'd love to be able to establish the birth date and place of a maternal g.g.grandfather Edward Thomas Sale York born approx. 1835 in London. He died at Barmutha on 21st January 1919 at the age of 84. And purely because I'm fascinated, why did he and his wife decide to get married in 1890 at Footscray, when, on the birth certificates of all of their children (born between 1861 and 1880), they state that they married in 1861 in Beechworth? Presumably, as they lived in the same place all of their married lives, most would have assumed that they were married, so why take the plunge at all!

If you are my wish fairy, and can answer these questions, or have an interest in any of these families:

Mrs Vera Grace Jolliffe

MANY MOURN HER DEATH

Advertiser; Tuesday 18th July 1967; Page 3.

A former President of the Yallourn Branch Red Cross, Mrs Vera Grace Jolliffe, died at Yallourn early on Thursday morning, after a long illness. She was the wife of a Yallourn pioneer, Mr Cyril Frederick Jolliffe, of 12 Tanjil-pl., Yallourn. Mrs Jolliffe came to Yallourn more than 30 years ago, and as Miss Vera Drury, was an accountant until the time of her marriage, at the then Yallourn General Store.

She had been active in Yallourn in the Country Women's Association, the Thespians' Dramatic Society, the Yallourn Bowling' Club, and the Raiweena Club.

Her outstanding gifts as an entertainer endeared herself to Thespians' audiences over the years, and many fine characterisations will be long remembered.

Mrs Jolliffe was never known to fail to come up with something new and clever in the way of entertainment for Bowling Associates' or Raiweena Club parties.

She was actively interested in politics, and in the Liberal Party of Australia, and her help undoubtedly did much to assist her sister. Dame Ivy Wedgwood, in her distinguished Senate career. Many Yallourn people attended a chapel service and funeral for Mrs Jolliffe at the Springvale Crematorium last Friday afternoon.

Vera, born in 1902, was the daughter of Albert Drury and Elizabeth Evans; ED.

A selection of tinware and packaging, at Gippsland Heritage Park, Moe.

PRINTED TINWARE

First experimented with in the 1860s, tinware became an important aspect of packaging from the mid 1870s onwards. Tobacco, talcum powder, shaving sticks, cough drops and lozenges, chocolate, tea and all kinds of confectionery and biscuits were sold in attractive tins. The period 1880 to 1940 represents the greatest era of printed tinware. Now that such objects are valued as collectors items and as decorator pieces we find a large range of reproductions in the shops. Australian cottages and any other less affluent habitation were almost certain to have one or two gloriously decorated tins on the mantelpiece. They were a good substitute for china and were mellowed by the smoke from the fire, so that the colours developed a warm, rustic character. It is interesting to note that while tooth powders were used well into this century, the more familiar paste in a metal tube was first produced in the 1890s. Artists' colours had been in tubes since the 1840s but Colgate is claimed to have been the first company to capture a wide market for toothpaste in tubes.

The period 1880 to 1940 might be said to have been the great era for packaging. Side by side were the older forms, some unchanged over centuries, and then all the technical perfection came to fruition towards the end of last century. Labels current a century earlier contrasted with full-colour printed packaging and a whole range of display material. Barrels, casks, canisters, tins, wooden and cardboard boxes, paper bags, glass jars and bottles, stoneware containers of all sorts and collapsible metal tubes represented the peak of diversity. After the Second World War packaging took new directions although some of the old designs and brand names still survive.

MONEY MATTERS

Decimal Currency

February 14th 1966 was the date Australians changed to Decimal Currency. Before this date we were bombarded with information about the conversion.

"In come the dollars and in come the cents
to replace the pounds and the shillings and the pence
Be prepared for change when the coins begin to mix
On the fourteenth of February 1966.

Clink go the coins, clink, clink, clink
Change over day is closer than you think Learn the value of the coins, and the way that they appear
And things will be much smoother when the decimal point is here.

In come the dollars and in come the cents
to replace the pounds and the shillings and the pence
Be prepared folks when the coins begin to mix
On the fourteenth of February 1966."

Currency Sayings

One and two remain the same,
The only difference is the name,
Three to nine, lose one its true,
And for the rest you take off two.

"Take care of the pennies and the pounds will take care of themselves."

"Not worth a Ha'penny"

"In for a penny in for a pound"

I'll have a "bob each way"

I'm going to "spend a penny"

As silly as a "two bob watch"

He's "Not the full Quid"

He's a "Shilling short of a Quid"

"A penny for your thoughts"

He's "Penny wise and Pound Foolish"

It "Doesn't matter a brass farthing"

He's a "Two Bob Snob"

£20, a Brick. £50, a Monkey.

VICTORIA 1852: STATISTICAL NOTES ON THE GOLD FIELDS OF VICTORIA

Part 2

Source: The Argus Newspaper Melbourne
15th November 1852

THE LICENCE SYSTEM -- Every person on the gold-fields, whether digging or not; (women and children excepted) must take out a licence of thirty shillings per month, which should be procured in the first week of the month, and parties should arrange to arrive about that time, as afterwards if unlicensed, they are liable for a penalty of £5. The licence is paid willingly by every honest digger, but it is notorious, notwithstanding the vigilance of the police, prompted by a share of the fine, that a large proportion, do not pay.

PRACTICAL OPERATIONS -- When a digger has secured a claim, he sinks a shaft - generally in the form used for well making - till he gets to the pipe clay. If he finds any indication of gold, he works out the bottom of his claim by driving, that is excavating about three feet in height, in all directions; the stratum usually within six inches of the clay being the wash stuff. The average depth at Bendigo to the pipe clay is about eight feet. The gullies run from west to east, with a northern tendency, and the gold is generally found in the beds of the gullies. The main gullies have been all well wrought, but are still profitable to trench., and will be especially available to large parties, say of six or eight. Many of the very rich holes have not been thoroughly explored, principally from water flooding them.

SUMMER OPERATIONS -- In consequence of the want of water and the expense of cartage, there will be great difficulty in digging at Bendigo during the summer months. Parties determined to stop the summer, should accumulate their washing stuff till the commencement of the rainy season, washing and selling only so much as will pay expenses.

AVERAGE EXPENSES AT THE GOLD FIELDS -- These including the sharpening of tools, clothing and licenses, need not exceed 35s per week, per man during the year

AVERAGE EARNINGS -- at this moment it is considered that a man who knows how to work, and will work, will earn 2 oz per

PROSPECTS OF THE BENDIGO GOLD FIELD -- The old gulleys will be profitable to be washed over again, but there is a large extent of country similar to the Bendigo district, yet untried, and on the whole it is highly probable that in the neighbourhood of the Bendigo there will be profitable diggings for several years to come.

THE GOVERNMENT; ITS OPERATIONS, -- THE COMMISSIONERS -- There are apparently more Commissioners than necessary. Mr Gilbert is the only man to whom the diggers look and apply with confidence, and who has given entire satisfaction; and if others did their duty, fewer would be required. In fact, scarcely another officer of Government is known to act. The diggers generally do not know what duties the other Commissioners at Bendigo perform, or that they do any duty at all. Their familiar designation is the "peacocks" and they say it would be very delightful to behold such creatures, were it not for the expense of man and horse.

PUBLIC WORKS -- These are apparently a complete system of jobbery. In the first place, roads are laid out for no conceivable purpose, and bridges are made at a frightful expense, which are not required. The bridge across the Bendigo Creek fell, it is believed, from its own weight. The Government have been paying at the rate of 8/- and 11/- per day, for bullock drays to do not more than 2/- worth of work, and they have paid at Forrest Creek 10/- per 100 feet for sawn timber, the usual price in ordinary times being 10/- per 100. (unclear). The roads made at great expense and about Bendigo district are now totally useless, and have never been necessary. What the diggers require is a good road between the mines and Melbourne. This has been greatly neglected. Had the money expended at Bendigo been laid out on the main line, it would have been advantageous to all parties, but as expected it has been completely thrown away.

POLICE AND COURTS -- For the protection of property and repression of crime the system of police and prosecution is entirely inefficient, or nearly so; and the want of a Court for trying and punishing offenders nearer than Melbourne, is also an enormous evil. For example, if a horse is stolen little or no notice is taken, and if the thief is caught, the owners must decline to prosecute, as the expense of going to Melbourne for the trial would absorb more than the value of the animal. The first step to the repression of crime must be the establishment of a Court for the trial of every species of offence. The police force is of a very inferior character. In the opinion of the diggers many of the constables are more inclined to violate the law themselves, than to apprehend offenders; and it is believed that few of them can withstand a bribe. Great dissatisfaction prevails on account of the lawless state in which the road from the diggings is allowed to remain. Scarcely a week passes in which diggers returning are not robbed of their earnings with perfect impunity by bushrangers, and up to the present date there is no improvement.

THE BENDIGO POST OFFICE -- Through the exertions of Mr Gilbert many improvements have been effected in this department (the management of which was previously scandalous); but it is still capable of improvement. A registered letter posted on 2nd Nov. has not arrived in Melbourne on the 11th, causing a loss of 10/- to the owner. The complaints of missing letters on the Diggings are innumerable.

THE EXPORT TAX -- The opposition of the diggers to this tax is universal. They say that they cheerfully pay the licence for digging; that if it was properly collected it would be sufficient for every purpose; and they consider it manifestly unjust that in consequence of its own neglect in the collection of that tax Government should require them to pay another. Besides a general disgust is felt at the way in which the money is squandered. It is considered finally, that if Government were to appoint efficient men to establish a mint, and through open the Crown lands for purchase, as in the neighbouring colonies, all difficulties would be removed; but in present circumstances any additional restriction or taxation will be sternly resisted.
