Wow!

Can you believe it ?

Sam Bramham off to Athens with the Paralympic team!

I was there and it took me a good while to sink in. There is always that special feeling about an Olympic Trials meet and it was no different this time. Nick Cordner, Sam Bramham and I were there on the day Ian Thorpe "tumbled in", this was the start of eight days of intense competition for selection in a great Australian Olympic team for Athens.

THE QUEST FOR A PLACE ON THE AUSTRALIAN PARALYMPIC TEAM was more of a dream for Sam going into this meet. On Day 1, Sam swam in the 100m Backstroke, swimming a PB by 4 seconds, but still not gaining a place into the final for that event. Knowing that Sam was not only a better butterfly than backstroker, and that he had worked hard on his fly, I thought he was only a slim chance at making a final let alone the Paralympic team. However, in the heats he slashed 5 seconds off his Personal Best. After his heat swim Sam and I were approached by Paralympic officials asking us to fill in paperwork for his selection as his heat swim was only 0.41 off selection time. Sam now had the opportunity of making his dream turn into a reality and he seized the opportunity. Sam swam 1.2 seconds faster in the finals - winning a BRONZE MEDAL in this event and securing his place on the team.

Making the team was only the beginning, Sam now will be striving to achieve a lifetime goal of performing at his best in the biggest arena of them all.

Congratulations to Nick Cordner, who swam at the trials under adverse conditions. Nick performed admirably to finish 10th in his event the 400 IM. Nick swam with a newly acquired injury. As the quote goes:

Real life isn't always going to be perfect or go our way, but the recurring acknowledgment of what is working in our lives can help us not only to survive but surmount our difficulties.

by Sarah Ban Breathnach

As a swimmer or coach we have no control over what anyone else does, only control over ourselves; so it stands to reason if we do all we need to do for our own preparation then we will achieve the best outcome for ourselves

Nick was given a race plan to follow for this swim with split times, he swum on those split times for 3 legs of the IM, and only struggled with the Breaststroke leg, which was affected by this injury. Nick should now go into Age Nationals, knowing he can swim the best swim of his career in the 400IM.
Best of Luck to Ken-Gene and Nick Cordner in Perth this week!

We have had some other great highlights in the last month that deserve special attention too.

All Junior Results

Congratulations to all our swimmers - special mention to all our younger swimmers who swum so well in their first major meet.

Congratulations to all our many medallists in the recent School swimming, great to see so many medallist and finalists ribbons. Keep up the great work.

Junior Pan Pacs

Australian Swimming recently met with the charter nations of the Pan Pacific Swimming Association during the FINA World Cup in New York (USA). Whilst the charter nations of Australia, Canada, Japan and the USA have traditionally concentrated on open level competition, this historic meeting created a vehicle for the charter nations to promote elite junior competition - the Junior Pan Pacs. The meeting confirmed the introduction of this junior competition to be held for athletes aged eighteen and under, who have not represented their nation at a major senior competition. The charter nations' intention is to hold the event in Hawaii, which is roughly the same distance from each charter nation. Therefore, all athletes must travel then compete, a philosophy Australian Swimming national youth program has been advocating for nearly eight years. The meeting also confirmed that ~~the event should be held on a two year cycle~~

The first Junior Pan Pacs will be held from 6 to 9 January 2005.
