

The perfectibility of mankind is crowned by the blessing or the kiss of God to clean the hearts of the Sons of Men that were filled with evil. Moreover to decorate the mind with lights by making safe for messages to run through without cloud, or an impelling force that darkens the mind as an outcome of a particular feeling) like the morning light that can see through the whole layout of a haystack. The free state of transference induces the mind to positive impetus growing harmoniously to make love possible and to bring a mental state of clean heart and clear mind that can work for others for truth, justice and democracy. The peaceful path can gather energy to produce brains potentially capable to create and bring to people a better future. This is not a myth
